

Remote Console Interface

Breeze

Lightweight

Your job creates tension. Your dispatch system shouldn't.

Designed and tested for use in the Public Safety Market, the OTTO Remote Console Interface is a versatile unit which provides operators ease of operation in critical situations. This modular system includes a choice of headset, control grip and coil cord with standard two prong plug that interfaces with most standard dispatch consoles used today.

This modular system features a:

- Control grip designed with a volume control, mute and PTT button all within one housing
- Variety of headset options that can be easily interchanged
- Durable 15' coil cord which allows users to easily move around a command center
- Modular design which allows easy replacement of any one component

When everyone is counting on you, you can count on the OTTO Remote Console Interface
